Christian Literature for Your Family

The Brave Tinker by P. de Zeeuw

This book follows the varied and eventful life the well-known preacher and author John Bunyan. The story starts with his expulsion from school. Then he took up the life of a tinker, going from house to house fixing broken pots and pans. He later experienced the rough life of a soldier. He was very poor when he got married. He was then turned by God from being the town's most notorious profane man into one who prayed, and finally a preacher. It was because of his preaching that he was arrested and kept in prison for years. It was there that he wrote his most well-known book: The Pilgrim's Progress. A fascinating story for boys and girls ages 10 and up.

The Frenchman from Geneva by P. de Zeeuw

It is the summer of 1536 in Geneva. A coach stops in front of the watchmaker's house, and a nobleman traveling under the name of Charles d'Espeville steps out of the carriage. Just like many of his countrymen, he has fled the persecution in France. His real name is John Calvin.

It all begins in Paris when Calvin is a student. There he meets the winemaker Cavier from a nearby village. Later Calvin asks him to protect a portion of his Institutes. He meets the winemaker and his family again in Italy, another dangerous area for Protestants. Cavier and a peddler named Antoine devise a plan for Calvin to escape his enemies.

Certain to provide hours of reading pleasure, this book contains three exciting stories that bring events of the Reformation to life.

From Weaver to Preacher by M.H. Karels-Meeuse

John Warburton (1776-1857) is born the son of a poor weaver in Stand, England, near the large, industrial city of Manchester. Like his father, John becomes a weaver, but the Lord has another task laid away for him: preacher of the Gospel! After serving a congregation in Rochdale for a few years, John becomes preacher in Trowbridge in 1815.

Throughout the years he also often travels to other places in England to bring the Gospel. He remains united to the congregation of Trowbridge until his death in 1857. In his eventful life John and his family experienced much poverty and wonderful deliverances. He wrote about these in his book Mercies of a Covenant God.

In From Weaver to Preacher, John's life story is retold, using material from his own book as well as a few other books.

William Tyndale, the English Treasure Seeker by J. Bout and N. J. Spaan

William Tyndale, who was born in 1494 in England, saw keenly how his people were purposely being kept ignorant by the Roman Catholic Church. He felt called to translate the Bible from Greek and Hebrew into the language of the English people. Because of this he came into a terrible conflict with the bishops and priests who wanted to keep the Bible in chains. The gifted young man faced a life full of hardships. He even had to flee the land of his birth. Despite all the schemes of the enemy, his work continued.

Baptism by Rev. W. Harinck

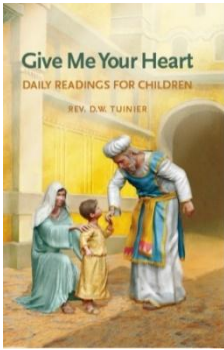

To be baptized is something very special. The first time your name was mentioned in God's house was at the baptismal font. Baptism shows that the Lord was willing to attach His Name to yours. Do you realize what a great privilege this is? Would you be able to explain its meaning if called upon at school or work?

This book has been written in order to help you to better understand the significance of baptism. The essential point that remains is the necessity of knowing the God of your baptism personally, with your heart. Already when you were still very young He said to you, "Seek Me and live."

Because you have been baptized, in a special way you may know that seeking the Lord will not be for naught. The Lord would not have done anything wrong if He would never have let His voice to be heard again. Yet it has pleased the Lord to speak to you already when you were still young. Hearken to the voice of the Lord!

Give Me Your Heart by Rev. D. W. Tuinier

You will read a small portion of the Bible every day by means of this daily meditation book. The Lord uses His Word to teach and convert His children, and often He does this when they are young. In this book you will read about those who feared the Lord in their youth, and what a blessing that is. However, in this book are also examples of those who did not fear the Lord, and the fearful consequences.

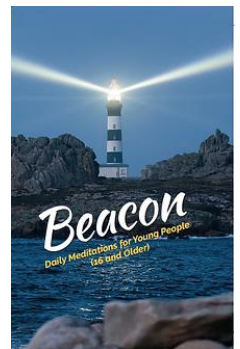

In addition, various happenings from out of the Old and New Testament are explained. There are also a variety of themes: once in a while it will be about the psalms, other times about prayer, God's House, traveling, or autumn time. At the close of each day's meditation you will find a psalter verse to sing. These meditations are for ages 8 and older.

Beacon by Ministers of the NRC

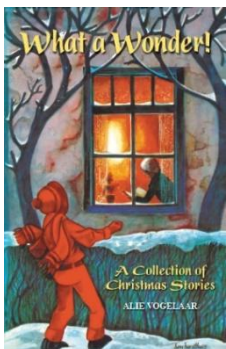

Beacons are impressive means which serve as signals at airports and warnings of danger, but you will also see them rising majestically on the shores of seas and oceans as guides for the ships. Many people are impressed with those lighthouses and often collect miniature replicas or have an entire calendar with pictures of them. This well-written devotional before you has received the meaningful title of Beacon. The purpose of this publication is clear: to guide you, my dear young friend, through the rough seas of your young years, though I am convinced that older ones may benefit from it as well. Many dangers surround you; many temptations threaten you. Much ignorance threatens the young mind, but much good is provided here. The Word of God shines upon the path of the just as a shining light, which shines more and more until the perfect day (Prov. 4:18). Read it prayerfully, carefully, and faithfully, and let the Word upon which these daily readings are founded shine as a lamp before your feet and a light upon your path.

The Wonder of Christmas by Aileen Mol

Leah and Melissa are traveling through the night to reach their grandparents' house in time for Christmas. Brent is nervous because he has to play an organ piece at a Christmas concert. Mark and Meghan have a secret. The children in this book have many things that happen to them. They all happen around Christmas time. Christmas is a busy time, and everywhere you look, the world seems to be celebrating. It is easy to forget the true meaning of Christmas. It isn't at all a celebration of pretty lights and colorful gifts, nor is it "just" a Bible story. What is a true Christmas? What is the wonder of Christmas? Have you ever thought about it? It is so easy to get carried along with the cheer and fun all around. It is my hope that this book of stories will help you to think about some of these very important things.

Who will deliver a sermon book to a lonely, old man in a nursing home who longs for Christmas? Will poor, confused Ellen celebrate Christmas too this year? Read these stories and find out more.

Thoughts for Saturday Night by Aileen Mol

Dear Parents and Boys and Girls. When it is Saturday, do you ever think about it that the next day will be the Lord's Day? Do you ever stop and consider that it is the day before Sunday? Often, Saturdays are busy. Maybe it would be helpful to read something from the Bible, and some words in connection with it, on a Saturday night. This little book of fifty-two short topics could be used for this purpose. Why not pick it up once a week, perhaps on Saturday night, and read a piece? Read it with your family, ask your father to read it, or read it yourself before you go to sleep. Most importantly, read the Bible portion listed at the bottom of each piece, and sing the Psalters together. Of course, this book can also be read as often as you wish. Those were my thoughts when I put this little book together. What is written is just a very feeble and poor effort, full of shortcomings. It is my hope that perhaps the Lord may be pleased to bless the simple words as He alone is able to do – otherwise, it will not be worth anything. These short stories and thoughts are best suited for children ages 6 through 13.

Secret Letter for the King by J. Kranendonk-Gijssen

Startled, he froze. What was that? A cracking sound! A soldier perhaps? His heart pounded in his throat.... As quickly as he could, he hid the secret packet under his vest again. Would his mission end in failure after all? He held his breath as he peered into the darkness. But everything remained silent. Cautiously he moved closer....

In the night of November 2, 1561, a sealed packet was thrown over the wall of the castle in Tournai. It was the Dutch Confession which Guido de Bres had written. There was also a letter to King Philip II in which Guido de Bres wanted to make clear to him that the heretics did not have bad intentions. They wanted to honor God and the king!

In this book you will read the story of Guido de Bres (1522-1567)

Give Me Your Hand by Barry Van Der Schoot et. al.

Those who travel far have much to tell. In these stories, it is often the personal encounters with people that are the most valuable, people from very different cultures but with the same hopes and questions. In this book we introduce you to a number of them. We offer a glimpse into the lives of older adults and young people from Iraq, North Korea, Peru, and many other countries. We walk alongside them for a while and are allowed a brief glimpse into their hearts. They speak of poverty, suffering, and persecution as well as about their search for a better life or for the meaning of life. There are also people who bear witness to hope and deliverance and to their encounters with God. As we listen to their stories we are encouraged, but we are also held up to a mirror. What would we do if we were in their shoes?

The Bridge of Love by Kathryn Rose

Olivia has always spent hours with her grandmother. She is an only child, and Grandma is her favorite playmate. One icy morning, Grandma meets with a terrible accident, and life changes for the whole family. Will Olivia's love overcome her fear of the people at Grandma's nursing home? What about the teasing of her classmates? Olivia has much to learn. Some lessons are learned at school, some at the care home, and some are best learned by the still small voice in her heart.

The Owl's Nest by W. Schippers

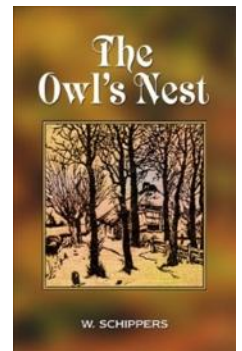

Starting a family in the Owl's Nest would be hard enough for the poor young laborer, but his father-in-law's malicious interference and the hatred of Gerrit Dubbe combine to make life most unbearable for Hans. Between the obstacles placed in his way and his own anger and bitterness, Hans learns that his ways and the ways of God are not the same.

Go for Me to China by J. Kranendonk-Gijssen

"I cannot understand that there are still no missionaries in China," nine-year-old Hudson said as he and his sister Amelia were sitting on the couch with their father. "I often pray that I may become a missionary in China when I'm older." When Hudson turned seventeen, the Lord heard his prayer and personally called him to go to China and proclaim His Name to the Chinese people. Hudson prepared for the journey by learning the Chinese language and studying to be a doctor. He began his journey when he finally had enough money.

This book describes the life and work of the missionary Hudson Taylor (1832–1905). It was written for children ages 11 and older, but adults will also enjoy reading this remarkable story.
